TURNKEY TAPPE'S RUSE.

Lured a Dangerous Insane Man to the Asylum
—Price-Fighting Hallucination.

Adam Brantlinger, aged twenty-three years, a former inmate of the Central Hospital for the Insane, was recommended to the institution yesterday afternoon. The unfortunate young man lives at Oakland, and was brought to this city, early yesterday morning, by E. H. Ludwig, a friend of Brantlinger's family. He was looked up at police headquarters during the day, and spent the hours in raving incoherently about the one hobby—price fighting. The patient imagined he was John L. Sullivan, and continuously pleaded that he be granted the privilege of meeting various police officers in the squared circle. It fell to the lot of Sheriff Emmett and Deputy Joseph Bowers to transfer the patient to the Central Hospital, and fears were entertained of ugly behavior on the part of the demented man. But trouble was averted by a practical ruse, invented by turnkey Al Tapp. The latter boldly walked into the crazy man's cell, and, calling him familiarly by name, requested the indulgence of a moment's interview. Brantlinger was inclined to hostility, and with a swagger of true pugilistic style exclaimed: "I am the great John L. Sullivan, and I can lick any man in the world." A gleam in the man's eye warned the turnkey that he would probably be compelled to put into execution his muscular powers unless something intervened, and with a bully-like stride that surprised the prisoner, Tapp walked up to him and remarked in a tone of choice irony: "Oh, no, you are not John L., you are an impostor. I'm Sullivan myself."

The ruse was successful, for Brantlinger laughed loudly and long, and extending his hand, said: "You are right, old man, I knew you was Sullivan all the time. Shake." The poor fellow then walked out of his cell as docile as a lamb, and was introduced to the sheriff and his deputy by the names of Corbett and Fitzsimmons. As he stepped into the carriage the demented man was about to hesitate, but on being told that he was to participate in a big mill across the river, accompanied the officials without a demur.

Teachers' State Manual.

A joint meeting of the committee on course of teachers' study, and the State manual was held yesterday at the office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. The final steps in the completion of the State manual were taken, and the manuscript for the work placed in the hands of the printer. The committee expects to have the manual ready for distribution by September.

Sanitary Condition of Acton.

Strong complaint is made to the State Board of Health from attendants at the Acton camp meeting of the wretched sanitary condition of the grounds and out-buildings. Yesterday a communication was received from the State Board of Health that some action be immediately taken by the authorities which will lead to the relief of those in attendance.

GARBAGE ROW STILL ON

Mayor Sullivan Sees No Way of Extricating His Crowd from the Muddle.

Hotel Men Indignant Over Another Arrest Last Night—They Will Ask the Mayor to Declare Himself.

WOODARD'S CASES CONTINUED.

The Contractor Wants to Know a Few Things of President Morrison.

The cases against the men arrested Thursday by the sanitary officers for hauling refuse through the streets in open vehicles were all continued in Police Court yesterday until Aug. 8. The following men appeared before the Court, and were released on their original bonds: Hiram Hunt, Emanuel Flora, Stephen Majors, Isaac Freeman, Collier Harrison, Thomas Wilson, H. M. Carlson, Walter H. Cox, Louis Dunn, James Carter, Arthur Kembrongh, Edward Garrett, Wilson Caudell and Geo. W. Robinson.

J. H. Woodard, the contractor, was also among them, and he was allowed to go his way. It is probable that these cases will be disposed of so that the men will not have to appear in court again. This was all that appeared on the surface in the garbage tangle yesterday, but the under stratum of feeling ran high.

Bright and early in the morning J. H. Woodard, who is nominally the cause of it all, appeared at the office of the Board of Health, stripped of none of the war paint he had on the day before, and asked President Morrison. The anarchy-haired hair of that individual as once assumed a brighter shade, and he waited for the other to begin. Woodard at first demanded to know if the Board of Health was going to allow the cases to go without prosecution. He was told most emphatically that the matter was in the hands of the court, and that the board did not propose to say a word for or against him.

"Well," said Mr. Woodard, "all I have to say is that you have all of my money in court, and I would like you to tell me how I am going to haul the garbage to-day."

If he intended that for a knock-out blow it was a good one.

"I assure you that the condition of the city will be no worse than it was yesterday," calmly replied Secretary Cook.

The argument got heated and Mr. Woodard was finally compelled to give it up and seek the counsel of a lawyer. Pierce Norton was employed by him and he succeeded in getting the case continued. The case was currently stated yesterday that the city was about to take steps to rescind the contract with Woodard, but if that is so none of the city officials was ready to shoulder the responsibility of making the statement. President Condit, of the Board of Public Works, said that anything of that sort was done it must be by the Board of Public Health. President Morrison, of the Board of Public Health, said that it was the business of the Board of Public Works to look after the contract, and that all he intended to do was to enforce its provisions. He said that the Board of Works had entered into the contract and that it must see to getting the city out of it if necessary. No one denied that such steps were contemplated, yet no one would admit it.

President Morrison said yesterday that he proposed to see that the ordinance was enforced, and that he did not care a rap whether the men hauling the stuff were Woodard's men or others. He was asked if the contractor had complied with his promise of the day before to have covers on the barrels in the wagon. He said that he had in most instances, but not in some, and that officers had been instructed to arrest all found driving without them. The officers stationed themselves at the crematory early yesterday morning, and were there all during the day, making several arrests. The arrests had become noisy about so extensively that a man who did not have his wagon in proper shape gave the crematory a wide berth. The men at the furnaces stated that they missed a number of regular drivers, and were of the belief that they were afraid to appear.

Complaints are piling up at the office of the Board of Health about the failure of the contractors to haul away the garbage, and many of them are ludicrous in their nature. One man states that he purchased a lot of fresh sawdust for bedding for his horses, and that he had put it in barrels just outside the door of his barn until he was able to put it in the regular bin. Another said that a garbage man came by, dumped barrels and all in his wagon and made way with it, never touching the receptacle which he had prepared for genuine refuse. Another said that he had purchased some lumber for the purpose of building a new stairway in his house and that went to estimate the cost of the garbage house and there are numerous others of a similar nature. The owners of the crematory are trying to find some means to secure the removal of the residents of the low lands about the furnace. These people are commonly known as "Oklahoma squatters," and they are said to be very troublesome neighbors. Complaints are made of their fighting and quarreling with the men employed about the furnace and among themselves. The company is about to build a new approach to the furnace, and one of these men is directly in its way. The man paid $25 for the house and now wants the company to give him $200 for it.

Formerly He Was Not So Particular.

One of the collectors for the garbage company made the statement, yesterday, that President Morrison, of the Board of Health, had, before Judge Buskirk's decision, seen garbage wagons come to the crematory without tops fastened as he now requires. He also said the President saw one of the wagons drive up with maggots on the wheels.

HOTEL MEN MEET AGAIN.

Wharton Is Again Arrested—A Committee to Wait on the Mayor.

There was another meeting of the hotel men at the Bates House last night to further consider the garbage situation. Some of them were not in the best frame of mind, for after dusk Wharton, the man who had before been arrested for violating the garbage ordinance, was again arrested as he was hauling the garbage away from the Occidental Hotel. Manager Doherty saw that the barrels were covered with tarpaulin, and made as near air-tight as possible. He made a strenuous complaint to Superintendent Colbert, and that official immediately ordered the release of the driver. It is claimed that the attention of the police-man who made the arrest was called to the load of garbage by some man who was riding on a bicycle. The hotel men do not propose to be persecuted by any of the city authorities in defiance of Judge Buskirk's decision, and they appointed a committee, consisting of Managers Reibold of the Bates, Doherty of the Occidental, Hall of the English, Shaw of the Sherman House, and Lawrence of the Spencer, to wait on Mayor Sullivan and have him put himself on record.

The hotel men claim they clean up their garbage and carry it away in better shape than the collectors who cart away the garbage under the Sullivan contract.

BOARD OF WORKS ROUTINE.

Complaints Against Street Flushing—A New Asphalt Street.

The Board of Works adopted the following street-improvement resolutions: For paving with asphalt the roadway of North street, from Meridian to Pennsylvania street, length 440 feet, width forty feet.

For grading and graveling the roadway and paving with brick the walks of Elder avenue, from Washington to Decatur street, length 847 feet, width 37½ feet.

For grading and graveling the roadway and walks of Sixteenth street, from Illinois to Meridian street, length 525 feet, width forty feet.

For paving with cement the east walk of College avenue, from Seventh to Eighth street, length 611 feet, width six feet.

The city engineer has a plat and reported it to the board for the proposed widening of Central avenue, from Tenth to Seventeenth street. No action was taken by the board. The Central avenue at that point is now fifty feet wide, and a petition was presented to make it sixty feet. A remonstrance against it has also been filed with the board. The petition and the remonstrance will have to be investigated by the engineer.

A communication was received from Superintendent Ferguson of the City Hospital, in which he stated that the wall which was now being built on the south bank of Fall creek in the rear of that institution will shut off the sewer outlet unless in some way changed. Several feet of the end of the sewer has been washed away by freshets and high water. The Board of Works notified the Board of Health that it considered it the Board of Health's duty to extend the sewer beyond the wall, which will obviate the difficulty, out of the City Hospital fund.

Petition for New Sidewalks.

T. S. Rollins appeared before the board yesterday in behalf of the petitioners for laying brick walks on Broadway, from St. Clair street to Christian avenue. He stated that the walks all needed repaving, and that the petitioners wanted them to be seven feet wide, and be placed next the curb. Mr. Haag appeared for the remonstrators and spoke against the improvement. The opposing sides are equally divided, each numbering fifteen. The board took no action.

A petition was presented for a cement walk on the east side of Arsenal street, from Ohio to Keller street. No action was taken.

Improvement Resolutions Reconsidered.

The board reconsidered all action on the following improvement resolutions: For paving with brick Elder avenue, from Washington to Decatur street; for paving with cement the east walk of College avenue, from Seventh to Eighth street; for paving with brick the north walk of North street, from Fayette street to first alley west. The papers will all be reordere, there being only inconsequential changes.

Complaints Against Flushing.

The Indianapolis Water Company has made complaint to the board that the men employed by the city to flush the streets have been breaking hydrants and have failed to notify the company of them. The board notified the street commissioner to look after it. Complaints were made that the flushing of College avenue was washing out the filling between the bricks.

Remonstrances Not Sufficient.

The board yesterday ordered the city engineer to prepare the necessary papers for cementing the walks of Fayette street, from St. Clair to First street. This had been petitioned for some time ago, but no action has been taken. The remonstrance, which, on investigation, did not prove to have a sufficient number of names attached.

Work of Sewer Contractors.

Complaint was made to the board by W. F. Christian of the condition of Massachusetts avenue, at Alabama street, as left by the sewer contractors. It was referred to the street commissioner.

A Bridge for Pogue's Run.

The board has ordered the city engineer to advertise for bids for constructing a bridge across Pogue's run, at the first alley west of Illinois street. The proposed cost of the structure is $150.

Complaints Against a Sprinkler.

The board has received numerous complaints of the sprinkling done by contractor South and it has notified him that unless the complaints cease his contract will be rescinded.

Cement Walks on College Avenue.

The city engineer has been instructed to prepare papers for cementing the west walk of College avenue, from Fifteenth street to Seventeenth street.

New Pumps and Wells.

The board has ordered new wells driven, and new pumps placed, at the Vance Block and in University Park. Charles Krauss secured the contract.

Petition for Water Mains.

A petition was presented for water mains on Cornell avenue, from Home to Lincoln avenue. No action.

CHILD'S TALE OF CRUELTY.

Minnie Mantle's Little Daughter Found Living with an Ill-Mated Couple.

Two young girls, aged, respectively, fourteen and thirteen years, were sent to the station house yesterday afternoon by patrolman Harris, and placed in charge of Mrs. Buchanan, police matron. The girls were Dora Davis and Cora Brocius, and were found by the officer at the home of Mollie Walker, a white woman who is married to a negro named Greenbury Walker. The Walkers reside on Brinkley street, where the prisoners say they remained Thursday night. The Davidson girl was detained at police headquarters some time ago at the instance of her mother, Minnie Mantle, who claimed that her daughter was incorrigible. The latter denied that she had done anything of the kind, and she claimed that the officers story of cruelty and brutality was a mere invention of the girl's mother, which she said was the cause of her leaving home. She was turned over to the care of her mother, who resides on Railroad street, but never returned.

Yesterday, when looked up, the Davidson girl again protested her innocence, as the same time repeating her former assertions of her mother's cruelty. She stated that the mother, in a fit of anger last Monday, threw a big knife at her, and threatened a manner of punishment. The girl says that the mother has been married three times, and that her own father left his home several years ago, and is now in Kentucky. She says that she does not know whether she is the daughter of the Mantle woman or not, the latter having told her at times that she is not her mother. If the youthful prisoner's story be true, she has certainly experienced a stormy existence during her brief life. At the age of eleven years she claims that she was sent to the "reform school," but left there after a few months because she was compelled to take care of nineteen young children, a task she found herself unable to continue. She lived at home a short time, when her mother sent her to live with Mollie Walker, on Brinkley street. Here she remained but a few weeks, when the Walker woman took unto herself a negro husband. The fact coming under the observation of the Board of Children's Guardians, the girl was taken away from the Walkers and placed in charge of Mrs. Bruce, matron of the home then operated by the board. The girl says that her mother, through some process of law, got her away from the home, and she has since been buffeted about from place to place.

Alexander Haugh in a Runaway.

Alexander Haugh, brother of Charles Haugh, of the Sentinel Printing Company, was seriously injured, yesterday, in an accident which happened directly in front of the City Dispensary, on Ohio street. Mr. Haugh was driving east, when his carriage collided with another vehicle. Before he could extricate his turnout from the tangle his horse took fright, and in attempting to turn around he fell over the curb. Mr. Haugh was thrown to the pavement with considerable force and was carried into the dispensary, where Dr. Sluss examined his wounds. None of the injuries were very serious, but very painful, and will confine the victim to the house for some days. He was sent to his home, at No. 403 South Illinois street.

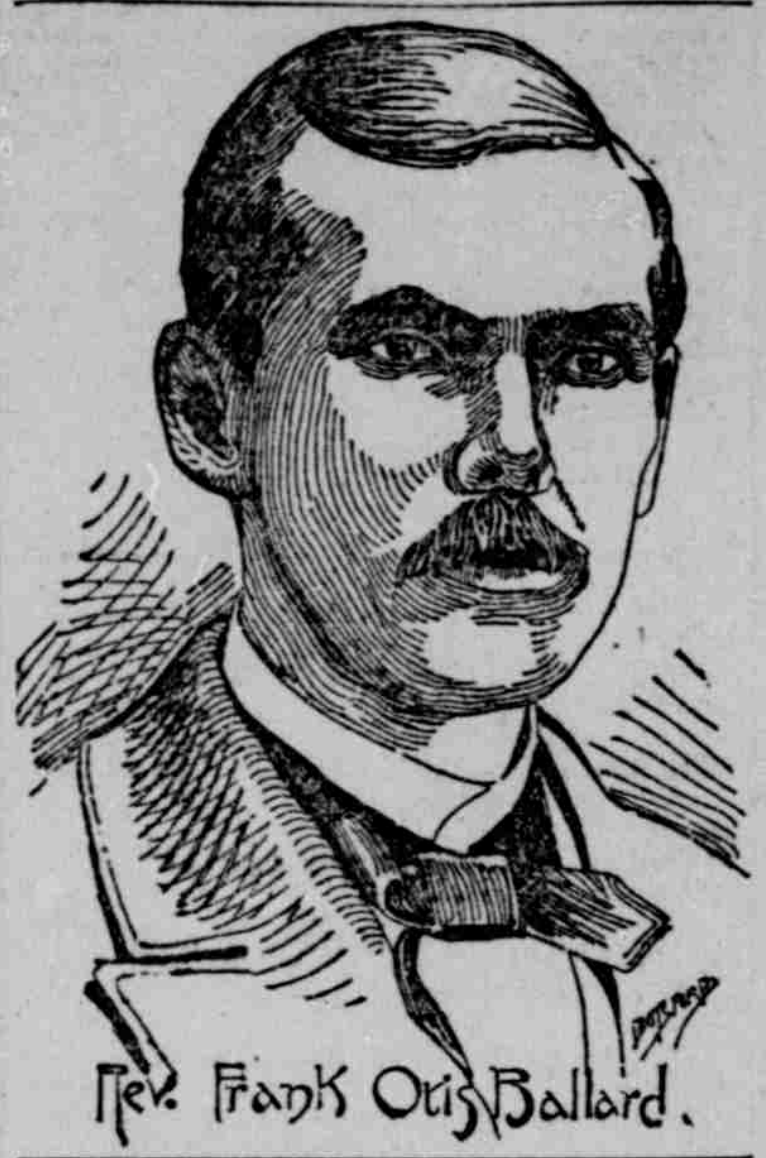

WARRANTS FOR STATE INSTITUTIONS.

The following warrants were yesterday drawn on the Treasurer by Auditor of State Henderson Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, $2,011.62; Indiana Reform School for Girls, $1,841.19; Institution for the Blind, $900.00.

REV. MR. BALLARD'S PASTORATE

Begins at the Memorial Presbyterian Church To-Morrow—A Bit of History.

Rev. Frank Otis Ballard, who has been called to the pulpit of the Memorial Presbyterian Church, will be installed to-morrow. He will preach at 10:30 A. M. and at 7:45 P. M. He was unanimously called to the pastorate. In this connection is an interesting little story. On May 27 three of the ruling elders of the church met in Col.

Richardson's office to consider the best interests of the church, when it was suggested by one of the elders that ex-President Harrison could probably furnish wise counsel relative to the securing of a minister for the church. Acting under the impulse, Colonel Richardson stepped to the telephone and called for General Harrison, who answered immediately, stating that Hon. John Wanamaker would call on him at his residence in twenty minutes, and that he would be glad to introduce the gentlemen to Mr. Wanamaker if they would like. Colonel Richardson and Mr. George W. Stubbs called at once, and met Mr. Wanamaker. They told him they wanted a pastor for their church, and he at once answered: "I know where your man is, if you can get him. You will find him in Chicago. His name is Ballard."

A committee was sent to see Mr. Ballard, and he was invited to visit Indianapolis. In due time he accepted a call. Mr. Ballard was born in Athens, O., March 23, 1852. He is a graduate of the Ohio University and of the University of Wisconsin, receiving his theological education at Princeton and Union Theological Seminary. His first pastorate was at Corning, Ia., where he served six years. In 1884 he removed to Chicago, and took charge of the First Presbyterian Church of Austin, a suburb, where he remained for nine years.

THE LOSS WAS TOO MUCH.

Harriet Hill Drops Dead When a Collector Calls for Some Furniture.

Harriet Hill, a colored woman aged sixty years, residing with her husband at No. 215 Alford street, died suddenly yesterday morning and the coroner was called to investigate the case. The woman's death occurred while an agent of a furniture store was in the house to secure some articles of furniture which had been sold on the installment plan and which Mrs. Hill was unable to pay for. While talking to the collector she got somewhat excited and suddenly placed her hand over her heart complaining of an intense pain. Dr. Woodburn was called in but before he could administer a restorative the woman was dead. The coroner will probably order an autopsy.
